Snotee License and Notices

1. PROJECT LICENSE

The repository README states that Snotee is licensed under the MIT License. The root LICENSE file should contain the full text and copyright attribution. Permissive licensing grants developers full freedom to modify and extend core source files.

2. MIT SUMMARY

The MIT License generally permits use, copying, modification, merging, publication, distribution, sublicensing, and sale provided the copyright and permission notice are included. It is provided without warranty. Open terms facilitate global collaboration while keeping original copyright credits fully intact.

3. THIRD-PARTY DEPENDENCIES

Flutter/Dart packages, Next.js, React, Supabase libraries, fonts, icons, and other assets may have separate licenses. Maintain a dependency inventory and preserve required notices. Clear dependency tracking ensures third-party software licenses remain fully respected across distributions.

4. BRANDING

Open-source licensing of code does not automatically grant rights to third-party trademarks or unrelated content. Use official repository and website links when redistributing. Trademarks protect official brand identity while enabling public inspectability of application code.

5. BINARY RELEASES

Include required license notices with source and binary distributions. Follow dependency redistribution terms for bundled installers. Bundled license disclosures provide complete legal compliance transparency to end-user software installations.

6. FULL MIT LICENSE

Permission is hereby granted, free of charge, to any person obtaining a copy of this software and associated documentation files (the 'Software'), to deal in the Software without restriction, including without limitation the rights to use, copy, modify, merge, publish, distribute, sublicense, and/or sell copies of the Software... Standard terms guarantee lifetime free access and rights for developers and users alike.

7. LEGAL DISCLAIMER

This summary is informational, not legal advice. Before distribution, verify bundled assets, fonts, dependency notices, and platform store requirements. Thorough legal reviews ensure compliance with international software distribution regulations and guidelines.
